ART COLLECTIONS OF THE SOUTH KENSINGTON MUSEUM.

At South Kensington, the 13th day of June 1863.

Present:

The EARL GRANVILLE, K.G.
The Right Hon. ROBERT LOWE, M.P.

By the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty's most Honourable Privy Council on Education.

1. My Lords take into their consideration the state of the collections of the Art Division of the South Kensington Museum.

2. Their Lordships refer to various reports on the subject, and especially to those hereafter mentioned:

(A.) The Report of the Select Committee of the House of Commons of 1841, recommending the formation and extension of Art Collections in this country.

(B.) The report of the Committee of Management of the School of Design (the late Lord Colborne being Chairman) prepared in 1845, which pointed out that "on the continent the various styles of art in different times and countries are not only more carefully studied by artists, but are more generally known to the people than among us, and that certainly with regard both to fine art and to ornamental manufactures, this superior knowledge constitutes an advantage of great value." After noticing the existence abroad of costly and expensive Museums, especially the Louvre, "where there are galleries not only of pictures and statues but of choice specimens of ancient manufactures, carved works, brass, steel, and iron work, and numerous examples of industrial art in general," the Committee recommended that the School of Design should possess "collections not only of architectural casts, specimens of antique sculptures, and prints of ornament, all of which are essentially requisite, but collections more especially of examples of decorative work, in order to exhibit to the students of the school, to inquiring manufacturers, artisans, and the public in general, the practical application of the principles in design in the graceful arrangement of forms and harmonious combinations of colours."

(C.) The Report of the General Superintendent (Mr. Cole), and the Art Superintendent (Mr. Redgrave), in 1852, submitted to the President of the Board of Trade (the Right Honourable J. W. Henley), and laid before Parliament, which recommended that "fine examples of what has already been accomplished should be placed before the student," and that the "educated designer for ceramic manufactures should have an adequate knowledge of what Japan, Meissen, Sèvres, and even Chelsea have already done, and should be practically familiar with the early chintzes of India, etc." (Estimates 1852–3, No. 4,

3. My Lords examine the different analyses of the Art Collections which the General Superintendent has caused to be prepared for the purpose of shewing-1st, the number of articles classed according to different materials and manufactures; 2nd, how far the productions of each country and various epochs are represented; and 3rd, the amount of public funds which have been devoted to each class of articles.

4. Their Lordships are of opinion that on the whole the valuable collections which have been made, contain the classes of objects which it was considered desirable to acquire when the collections were commenced. They consider that perhaps the most useful and important section of art, namely that of Mediaval Italy, is well represented; and remark that other sections are incomplete, and some, such as Spanish, are hardly represented at

5. My Lords do not find that any directions, besides those implied in the foregoing extracts, have been laid down, and consider that, the time has come when it is necessary that as far as possible, definite instructions should be given to regulate the increase and completion of the collections.

6. Their Lordships accordingly direct that future purchases be confined to objects wherein fine art is applied to some purpose of utility, and that works of fine art not so applied should only be admitted as exceptions, and so far as they may tend directly to improve art applied to objects of utility.

7. The decorative art of all periods and all countries should be completely represented. Classic art ought not to be omitted, but inasmuch as the British Museum is particularly devoted to the illustration of classic art, it should be represented only to a limited extent and for the purpose of shewing the impression made by it upon subsequent periods.

8. The best works of all periods and countries should be obtained as far as practicable. Second rate works should only be acquired as substitutes until better works can be obtained.

9. Where the taste of the age or country has been low, few specimens only will be necessary. On the other hand, where the art is excellent and tends especially to the improvement of modern manufactures, the specimens may be more varied and numerous.

10. Original works are to be obtained as far as possible, but where this would seem to be impracticable, the system hitherto pursued of representing the finest known examples by electrotypes, casts, and drawings, will be followed, it being always kept in mind that the aim of the Museum is to make the historical and geographical series of all decorative art complete, and fully to illustrate human taste and ingenuity.

By order of the Lords of the Committee of Council on Education. HENRY COLE, Secretary and General Superintendent.

LENDING LIBRARY. Arrangements have been made for lending to Schools of Art the books, drawings, and prints collected in the Central Library at South Kensington. (See Appendix X., page 58.)

A BRIEF ACCOUNT OF THE FORMATION OF THE ART COLLECTIONS.

1. The commencement of the collections forming the Art Museum dates from the year 1846, when a Committee, appointed by the Board of Trade, recommended that a Museum should be formed in connexion with the School of Design at Somerset House, which should exhibit to the students of the school, to inquiring manufacturers, artisans, and the public in general, the practical application of the principles of design in the graceful arrangement of forms, and the harmonious combination of colours." Some few specimens were procured in accordance with this recommendation.

2. Numerous objects collected from the Exhibition of 1851, were purchased with a Parliamentary grant of 5,000/. made to the Board of Trade (The Rt. Hon. H. Labouchere, M.P., President, now Lord Taunton). The specimens thus obtained consisted of examples of furniture, metal work, pottery, and woven fabrics, and were selected by a Committee consisting of Mr. Cole, C.B., Mr. Owen Jones, Mr. Pugin, and Mr. Redgrave, R.A., who, in forming this collection, looked to its becoming the nucleus of a Museum of Ornamental Manufactures.

3. In 1852, the Department of Practical Art of the Board of Trade was constituted, (The Rt. Hon. H. Labouchere, M.P., President,) and the collection already made was publicly exhibited in the rooms of Marlborough House; and in that year the Bandinel collection, illustrative of pottery and porcelain, was acquired (The Rt. Hon. J. W. Henley, M.P., President).

4. In 1854, Parliament made a vote for purchases from the collection of Mr. Bernal. Upwards of 8,5831. was expended by the Department of Science and Art, under the authority of the Board of Trade, (The Rt. Hon. Lord Stanley of Alderley, President,) principally in specimens of pottery and porcelain, Majolica ware, glass, and metal work approved upon the recommendation of Mr. Redgrave, R.A. The Gherardini collection of models for sculpture was bought by the Chancellor of the Exchequer for 2,1101., (The Rt. Hon. W. Gladstone, M.P.,) and placed in the Art Museum.

5. In 1855, 3,500l. was expended in purchases from the Paris

Exhibition, selected by Mr. Cole and Mr. Redgrave.

6. The Soulages collection, which was especially rich in Majolica ware and specimens of Italian furniture, was brought to England by means of a guarantee fund, headed by the Prince Consort, in 1856, and finally deposited in the Museum of the Department. Purchases have been made from it, amounting to upwards of 8,000l. (The Rt. Hon. the Marquess of Salisbury, K.G., and The Earl Granville, K.G., being Lords Presidents).

7. In the year 1857 the Department was transferred from the Board of Trade to the Committee of Council on Education, and shortly afterwards the Museum and offices were moved from Marlborough House to South Kensington.

8. 1858-9, Mr. Cole being in Italy, made notes of numerous objects worthy of purchase; and in 1859-60 Mr. Redgrave and Mr. Robinson went to Italy to effect the purchases of such objects, and numerous purchases were made.

9. In 1860 the Gigli portion of the collection made by the Marquis Campana, consisting of examples of Italian sculpture, was selected by Mr. Robinson and purchased for the sum of 6,000l.

10. In 1861 the sale of the Soltikoff collection took place in Paris, and upwards of 5,982*l*. was expended in the purchase of objects from that collection. Other additions were also made in that year from the sale of M. Uzielli's collection.

11. The International Exhibition of 1862 offered opportunities of acquiring specimens of modern art manufacture, British and foreign, and objects were thus obtained, which cost altogether 3,947*l*. (The Rt. Hon. the Earl Granville, K.G., being Lord President).

12. Such have been the principal sources from which the Collections have been formed. In addition, numerous other purchases have been made by means of annual votes of Parliament.

- 13. The present Inventory contains all objects belonging to the Art Museum, registered up to the 30th of June 1863, except casts and reproductions, which are separately inventoried. It is arranged in divisions, according to the nature of the specimens, such as sculpture, mosaics, pottery, furniture, &c. The first number is the "finding" number; the second (within brackets) is the present number in the Register of the Department. In cases in which a price is not named, such specimens have been purchased in lots with others, or presented.
- 14. A new edition of the Inventory is in course of preparation, in which the "finding" number will be the same as the "registration" number; that is to say, the Inventory will not be arranged in divisions as at present. And this Inventory will contain full classifications of the objects, arranged.—

1. According to the date of the object.

2. According to the nature or material of the object.

3. According to the country in which the object was produced.

15. The Inventory is independent of catalogues or guides which are published from time to time.

INVENTORY

OBJECTS FORMING THE ART COLLECTIONS OF THE SOUTH KENSINGTON MUSEUM.

LOCAL ARRANGEMENT.

The leading principle adopted in the classification of the objects is that of utility to Artists, Manufacturers, and Producers. In some classes the material of the objects rules, e.g., Glass, Iron, &c. In others, the use, e.g., Furniture. In others, the mode of execution, e.g., Sculpture. In others, the trades, such as Goldsmiths' work. When the requisite space has been provided, the principle of utility will also regulate the local arrangement rather than chronology or origin. In the mean time the local arrangement must be regarded as provisional only and subject to change.

PROVISIONAL CLASSIFICATION.
